Description	The Description and Situation content ontology design pattern. This CP represents conceptualizations i.e., descriptions, and corresponding groundings i.e., situations. The pattern is extracted from DOLCE+DnS Ultralite by partial cloning of elements, and is composed of three other CPs: description, situation, and classification.

Depends on	• http://www.ontologydesignpatterns.org/cp/owl/classification.owl • http://www.ontologydesignpatterns.org/cp/owl/description.owl • http://www.ontologydesignpatterns.org/cp/owl/situation.owl
Covers CQ	• What situations satisfy a certain description? • What descriptions can be (partly) satisfied by that situation? • What situations (partly) satisfying a certain description can emerge out of this dataset?
Example usage scenario	Preparing a coffee is general a task which is described as involving water, coffee mix, and a heater. Karl making his morning coffee is a real life situation that satisfies this general description of coffee making.
